statement by word of mouth, a good argument is always wanting, and this is what the Book of Changes has always guarded people against. If a man is not guilty of anything seriously wrong, is it likely that he will submit himself to be killed? With regard to LAI MING CHUN, be is From Margoilles.-Mr. and Mrs. Manson, indeed a bare-faced fellow, and one who has no Mrs. Redwood and child, and two servants, regard for anything. On the 27th day of the Messrs. Duncan. Smith, Hutchinson and 10th Moon last year (24th November, 1875), he servent, Ballour, Thomas and son, Andrews, slandered Mesars, Tsangshun YEE and Woo and Lememe and European servant. Tsang and Woo had thought of suing him before the local From Marseilles.-Mesers. da Roza, Nicolu, authorities, so that he might be punished Lucas, Vakin, Comuro, and . to. From Cal- for libelling people's character. Fortunately cutto.-Mr. E. Roberts. From Galle.-Mr. for bitt, bowever, LAI MING CHUN learnt in time of his own wrong in slandering the character of good men, and now he has voluntarily consented to pay the penalty of bearing the legal expenses in the sum of $600, and to pay also (into the poor box) $25, for the THE HOUSE No. 7, Gough Street. Apply reliaf of the Hongkong poor; also, from his L to funds, to pay costs of inserting in the Chinese and foreign newspapers, three of each, for the period of one month; an article, in order to redeem himself from what he has been guilty of. But this nevertheless, would not actually be sufficient to cover the enormity of his sin. Galle. Le Comte Chappedeleine, For Ismailia. The reason why Mesers. Tsang and Woo condescend to these terms was because they had been advised by intimate friends, who urged that, inasmuch as both parties were Chinamen. how could they, Mesers. Tsand and Woo, have the heart to see him (LAI MING CHUN) put in a gaol of the foreigner? So that it would be far better that they should forgive him, but tion, inflict a small penalty by way of a small

It is happened, luckily, that Messre. Tsand and Woo's magnanimity proved to be as expansive as the sea and as capacious as the ocean, and it was thus that the matter was put an end to. This is sufficient to show that Messrs. TSANG and Woo are peaceful and quiet men, and that they have done a very good act. But LAI MING CHUN is a man who is very much conceited (lit. the night pedestrian who thinks blishment. s great deal of himself), and one who falsely dilates in satire and raillery. He began life in a very mean position, and is not of a respectable family (lit. the descendant of the pure and over, offends his superiors. Therefore it would not be arbitrary were he to be bapished beyond the frontiers, nor would it be too much were he to be put to the sword (lit. under the are). Now that be is only fined in so small a sum, it is indeed his good fortune that he has escaped greater consequences.

ONE WHO UPHOLDS JUSTICE. This has reference to a Chinese story thich, in its moral, is very similar to the Frog and Bull story in Æsop's Fables.—Translator. 1m 243 Hongkong, 19th February, 1876.

MAN'S character should be judged from what it has been before, and by that means elegande or worthlessness can be discerned. A story should be judged by its true or false bearings, so that right and wrong may be distinguished. These remarks apply to the case in which Messrs, TSANG SHUN YEE and WOO LIN TAK were, on the 27th day of the 10th moon last year (24th November, 1875), slandered by LAI MING CHUN, Mesers. Tsang Sun Yne and Woo Lin Pak have been fesiding for more than ten years in Hongkong, and have always been employed in representing Nam Pak Hongs in their transactious with foreigners. While their character stands high, their conduct is excellent, and they have for a long time back been respected by both Chinese and foreigners. They have not only not borne a name that is approaching to anything improper, but they have not in the course of all their actions done anything obrectionable. Unexpectedly, however, slander came upon them unawares, but of course, when virtue stands high, reproach will come. They were therefore falsely charged by Lat Mino Chun's letter, which was void of all truth with selling people for emigration abroad. They are indeed labouring under a false imputation from which it is now difficult for them to clear themselves. Our Office, therefore, in Offices of the Corporation, punishing LAI MING CHUN for having done what he ought not to have done, orders himand he consents-to pay the sum of $600, the amount of legui expenses; he has also by way of punishment to pay $25 into the poor box for the benefit of the Hongkong poor. He is further punished by having to pay the expenses of advertising in the Chinese and foreign newspapers in the Colony, three of each, for the period of one month, a notice which will bring before the public his sin in this defamation.

Reparations like these will, perhaps, allay in a measure the indignation which Measre Tsang and Woo feel. When a man finds fault with others be ought | 384 % on Local Risks only. solf is unblomished. Now LAI MING OHUN, as a man, is not one who is numbered among the gentry, nor is his name pronounced by the lips of the illustrious. Yet he falsely dilates in elanderous language and spreads diffusedly by QUHEN FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY word of mouth stories to the defilement and poliution of (the good name of) Messra, Tsang | | FE Undersigned are prepared to GRANT and Woo. It was right therefore that Messre. TEANG and Woo sought to sue bim in the Courts of Justice, and he was on the eve of being punished by the utmost penalty of the law. Fortunately, however, Mesors, Tsang and Woo's magnunimity is expansive as the sea and as capacions as the ocean, and they deal with people liberally; with that end in view, they therefore THE SECOND COLONIAL SEA AND prefer, instead of punishing him, as he rightly deserves, to forgive bim of the enormous orime of which he has been guilty. An instance of the evil effect produced by the prevalent practice of "squeezing" by officials in China is afforded by a memorial from the Censor Chano Tao-Yuan in the Peking Gazette of the 7th ultimo. The district between Chinking and Socchow and round Tailsing and Kading, in the province of Kiang-su, suffered severely during the Taiping rebellion, and for some time was lying waste and unreclaimed. The Censor avers that the revenue clerks of district magistracies have been in the habit of levying black mail upon the new settlers who are bringing the land again under cultivation. These exactions have the effect, he complains, of discouraging the agricultural class from applying for title deeds placing the land on the register for taxation, so that the revenue and the people alike suffer through the greed taking the money, eight chests of opium, and of official underlings. Inquiry and action have been ordered on the subject, and there probably the matter will end. .. Inquiry is usually the ultimate stage in Chinese proceedings instead of being preliminary. The lrigher officials, either sympathising with the neferious practices of their subordinates by foreigners, seems to have raised considerable or from pure indisposition to put themselves to trouble of any sort, generally allow investigations to be hushed up, and conse. The Japanese Government is using extraordiquently the impending bolt rarely falls upon the heads of offending underlings. In no Mr. Black began one in the foreign concession country are there more public exposures of | coording to the general terms of the Trenty abuses; and a stranger might think that in the face of the denunciations of them so frequently made in the Gazette that they in vain. He rightly said that English law would soon cease to exist. But though the Censorate was established with the best dashed out a proclamation which equals anypast proved a wholesome check upon Council-and poor Black was ruined. He went officials in China, it has failed to put about his project very judiciously, and had not down corruption except perhaps in a few isolated instances. The Censor's power, wished to avoid giving undue offence to a Gounfortunately, is limited to pointing out abuses | vernment which be knew would find some and misconduct. They talk of shutting up the English however, the revenue is the chief sufferer, papers, and have shut two of them up by It is often a matter of arrangement between the lower officials and the people, who, not unnaturally, are content to submit to an exaction so long as it is smaller in amount than the tax which is thus avoided. Owing and that Sir Harry may find out that he is to these dishonest practices, the Chinese Go. vernment loses vast sums annually, while the our that this affair should be heard about, staitling decline of the American trade, and warned in order that such an event may never officials themselves become more and more corrupt, and justice is only obtainable by China is, in fact, rotten to the core and it will subject, gave Lord Palmerston the suck for into a corner, and, by the introduction of tious, His Excellency, the Governor of this take a very vigorous and thorough measure forces to show she was in carnest and it is a good in quality as those made by hand in and accepted by articles I, and IX. of the

to direct its fulfilment to save it from destruction. One of the first if not the initiatory step in this direction must be a determined effort to put down the practice among the officials of extorting money from the fears or hopes of the people. The Consor should follow up his exposure of an abuse by inquiring, after a reasonable interval what steps have been taken for its removal, and whether the parties concerned in it have been punished. But we have no evidence to show that this is done, and it is to be feared that as before stated, having once directed attention to an evil, he leaves it for others to deal

market for a loan, the Courier tells us, the amount proposed being ten million taels, The repayment of this loan is to be secured, it appears, by the hypothecation of the Customs revenues of the Yangtsze ports. The loan is needed, our contemporary opines, for the prosecution of the war with Kashgar. This is very probable, for, in spite of the difficulties in the path, the Peking Government cling with obstinate pertinacity to the idea of reconquering this distant ex-tributary The Chinese have always been leth to surrender the smallest strip of territory, however intractable the inhabitants or inaccessible the country. Their last attempt to bring Kashgar back to its allegiance to the Dragon Throne cost them, if report is to be trusted, an army and a large sum of money. But, though the Desert of Gobi lies between the seat of the Imperial Government and Yaccon Bre, though the troops of the latter are armed and trained to a degree that the Chinese legions have no chance with them except by overwhelming numbers, and though, finally, they are aware that Russia is backing up the AMEER, the has been wrecked at Galle. She sank in fifteen Chinese are eager to make another offort to win back their old feudatory. It would be far better for then to abandon all thought of regaining it. Every attempt to do so, while Russia props up the adventurous ruler, must end in failure and a waste of strength and resources. It would be different if the AMEER and morel support, though even then it is very questionable whether the victory would be worth the cost. Bailey, Heg., U.S. Consul, Hongkong, Sir, On the night of Sonday last, I anchored my yeoht in a small bay near Macao. called Porto Corso, close to a guard bouse of Portuguese soldiers. I was builed from the shore, and replied that the boat was a yacht. In a short time several revolver shots were fired in the direction of my want, and I sent two of the crew ashero to accertain why the firing was continued. One of the men was seized and the other returned saying that I had better go on shore. I went accordingly, and was deteined the soldiers in the guard house. notwithstanding that I explained that the yacht was a pleasure-boat and would leave in the morning. I insisted on being taken before some authority, and was marched between soldiers to the Central Police Station at Macao, where I in vain attempted to produce my release. I explained, through their interpreter, that I was an American and that my yaobt was a pleasure-boat, but all to no purpose. I was confined until the officer of the atation awoke at 6 a.m. and after walking with guard to the Deputy Commissioner (I believe) of Police, I finally procured my release. The above is a condensed statement of what coourred, and in view of the arbitrary arrest and confinement of myself and one of my crow and the fact of being fired at with loaded revolvers by the military of Macao, I deem i right to demand through you an apology from the Government of Macro, and an explanation of their proceedings. I was arrested without renson or warrant, and confined without authority and this in the face of the presence of my yacht within a few yards of the soldiers who seized me, and my explanations of the character of the bont and my own nationality. I would ask you, then, to bring this subject before the Governor of Macao, in such a way as you may deem proper to secure the apology l think myself entitled to. I have the honor to be Sir, (Frank our own Correspondent.) HOME POLITICS.

LONDON, 28th January. The great political event of the week has been a speech from Mr. Bright, delivered to ble constituents at Birmingham last Saturday, and although the leaders of the Liberal party have not yet endorsed or adopted the great tribune's views, I imagine it to be understood that they will do so, and that the principles be enunciates will form the war ory of the Opposition. It was altogether a great speech, worthy of the man and of the occasion, and coming as it did from the line of a man who fought an uphill fight against the entire Tary party for a whole generation, winning Free Trade and the abolition of the Corn Laws by sheer force I have the bonor to inform your Excellency, of argument, it cannot, but produce an imthat on the 27th February at I c'olock s.m., a mediate and indelible effect. He treated the mismanagement of the navy, the burial ques-> manner more adapted to its utilisation and to the boucht of the people than can be done under present circumstances. He commenced his speech by pointing out that the permanent prosperous state of the country on which Mc. Disraeli's Government so much congratulated itself, was the result of a long series of Liberal legislation, every act whereof the Conservatives bitterly opposed under awful forebodings and depunciations as to the ruinous consequences likely to result. Nothing was now heard of these results, except landstory estisfaction and congratulation at the success nobleved.

Then as to the county franchise Mr. Bright sed the following arguments. Thirteen mil lions of the population lived in boroughs, and were entitled to a $7 household franchise. Eighteen and a half millions lived in the conntry, who had to be rated at £12 and pay a rental of £16 to be entitled to a like privilege. boroughs, at the hist election, returned majority of 50 in favour of Mr. Glad stone. whilst the counties returned 100 in favour of Mr. Disraeli. Consequently the borough rote was swamped, and placed at the mercy of the landed proprietors, who, influen-SIR.—I have the honour of acknowledging cing the county vote, became unduly reprereceipt of your communication of yesterday's sented in the legislature, where they attained a date, envioring copies of the correspondence position which enabled them to pass laws adapted for their protection and interests.

Thus the county franchise became blender with the land question. Mr. Bright used I beg to express my thanks to you for your statistics carefully elaborated and capable of mediation, and accept the assurance made by test, showing that "Entail and the laws which resulted in the whole land of the United diers who exceeded their authority, and that a Kingdom falling into the hands of 14,000 prosimilar occurrence will not again take place. In my opinion, matters look frightfully squally. In to-day's Times, under the head of "Naval they will pass a "Building Act" requiring the Intelligence," a list is given of the ships of war builders of readily combustible houses to erect now in hand. Why, I should say there are as many there as would account for the combined navies of Europe, to say nothing of the existing discription of construction as an arrester of fire deet. Twenty-inch armour and eighty-one-ton was never more clearly shown than on the present guns seem the order of the day. The Con-Naval progress, and the reason is plain. Trade and Revenue returns lately published unmistakeably display the fact, that whilst France can easily bear the strain on her resources which the present arined pears entails, Germany is everweighted, and cannot long continue it. The wealth and resources of France were known to be very considerable, but no conception could have been formed of their vastness or powers of recuperation, or Prince Bismurck would have devised more effectual means of orippling her than he did. The three Emperors may do what they choose, but France must be the leading Power of Europe. A few facts and figures will foreibly illustrate my meaning. France started in the latewar pretty heavily weighted with debt. Germany very lightly weighted. France was frightfully devastated. Germany was not invided at all. France last two fair provinces. Germany acquired them. France was mulched in 200 millions pounds sterling, which Germany roceived. France lost a stable Government; Germany acquired one. France was torn with four contending factions. Garmany was consolidated under a strong dynasty and a powerful Government. Now look at the results. The French revenue accounts for 1875 display a surplus over the estimates of five millions sterling. In the palmiest days of the Empire, seven years ago, the revenue was 75 millions sterling; it is now nearly 110 millions. Trade and commerce prosper and advance, the utmost confidence prevails, and no symptoms of distress are apparent, Now let us turn to Germany. About 150 millions of the French mulet were spent in the construction of military defences to provide against any future invasion of the French. The rest of the indemnity seems to be dissipated. The receipts for 1875 show a deficit of millions on the estimates this deficit bag to be provided for in this year's budget, which is proposed to be flected in a manner that cannot be repeated

The deficit this year will probably be 21 millions, which there appears to way of meeting except by the reduction of expenditure, which means a reduction of the army, a thing not to be dreamt of under present circumstances. But the mere deficit mentioned by no means embraces the gravity of the case; it indicates a rotten place in the German military system, which is the most ruinous conceivable, for it not only requires all the taxes that can be raised, but compulsory military service on the who should be tilling the ground, working at the loom or anvil, or plying mercantile pursuits are sent to drill, and not only lose their time, but acquire imbits uncongenial to good citizenship, the capitalist becomes wary, and emigration very rife. From that France is quite exempt, but it is a serious question for Germany, for when matters improve in the United States, the present stream, great as it is, will doubtless be multiplied. The conscription in France is bad enough, but more regard is there paid to commerce and manufacture; and matters are the more easily arranged. No doubt the German army greatly surpasses that of France, but the French avoid all pretext of a casus belli, and are clearly biding their time. In the present confused state of Europe it seems impossible to conceive that so astute a patriot as Bismarck is, will neglect the opportunity which is sure to occur of putting an end to this consuming ruinous peace.

FRENCH POLITICS. Regarding the French Senatorial elections; what seems quite certain is, that the Senate will in no case contain a purely Ministerial majority -that is to say, a majority such as M. Buffet understands by the term, without the members of the Left, even the most moderate of them, the Left Centre. Even admitting the very favourable, I believe too favourable, figures now circulating, this conviction will easily be arrived at, It is affirmed that information received, not at the Home Office, but by each Party, gives this result :- The Senate will include 22 Radicals, 16 Irreconcilable Bonapartists, 47 Moderate Bonapartists accepting the truce, 70 Pusionist Orleanists and Legitimiststhat is to say, Ministerialists: 14 Ultra Legitimists, reckoning, of course, in these numbers the stanch or Fusionist Legitimists; and the Orleanists figuring in the 75 Life Sepators, as also the Radicals. If this calculation is correst, the Left of every shade, except the Radicale, will only, including the 55 already chosen, number 126, so that of the 225 Senators to be elected all the Left, excluding the Radicals, would win only 71 nominations; that is to say scarcely a third. The Speciator remarks that so confident is M.

Buffet of success that he has adopted quite a new and defiant tone to the Permanent Committee. They met on Thursday, and proceeded to question the Premier upon a Circular be had sent into Savoy, upon an order allowing papers to be prohibited from sale in the streets, and upon the decree forbidding M. Gambetta to makes epech at Marseilles. M. Buffet asserted that his order about the press was legal under deniel-but blankly refused to answer any mittee, he said, had no right to interpellate him, and he should explain only to the new Assembly, or the present one, if called together. He was asked whether the Schatorial electors would meet in the Prefectures, where they would be mader restraint, and replied that he should be guided by his information: refused to pledge himself to grant "electoral facilities" in cities under a state of siege, and, in fact, conducted himself as if already secure of impunity from censure. His attitude has greatly irritated the Liberals, who threaten, when the Assembly meets, to call him to a severe account—a menace which he, on his part, hopes to meet, if the Senate is properly Conservative, by a counter-

I think this view of M. Buffet's idea of his position may be open to question. Surely, if he were convinced that the majority in the coming Assembly would be against him, he would not as he is doing on the principle of making bay while the sun shines. (To be Continued.)

JAPANESE ART.

The following is from the Academy :- The thirty-two pages published under the title of Japanese Arl show that Messie. Audsley and Bowes have been long engaged in collecting their materials, and that no source of information has been perfected by them. The works of the travellers Knempfer and Siebold are still the eafest and the most abundant, from a technical point of view. But how many gaps they have left, which neither the clever Tales of Old Japan, by Mr. Mitford, Le Japon Contemporain, by M. Humbert, Sir R. Alcock's book, nor other picturesque and amusing publications on the subject, have yet been able to fill up! Much may be learned from conversations with the Japanese if they are of the higher class and see that you are a real friend of their country. But Europeans should, above all things, set to work to translate as literally as possible all the collections of celebrated poems, national songs, historical tales, tales for women and children, lillustrated geographica, the descriptions of temples containing all kinds of curiosities, the popular and serious encyclopedies, they can lay their hands on, and such works are now to be found in considerable number in European libraries. This is the great thing to be done now; and it is a work as full of interest as the exploration of the sources. of the Nile, leading as it does to the discovery of psychological regions hitherto very little known. Japan has fornished us with lovely flowers and trees for our occasion. As for the theatres, to make them | timental Powers seem to have abandoned all ours. On their objects of art these plants have a complex meaning; not only are they intended to give pleasure to the eye, but also contain a historical aliasion. It was a good idea of Mr. Andslev's to have copies made of ten of these arrangements of flowers and foliage which the Japanese are so olever at making for their vases. Young girls belonging to the best the present occasion, one must conclude that winning card, and more money is wanted for celebrated professors. A year or more passed away, and Huang was filling the post of Commander of the naval forces stationed at Ku-yu; Kwo-jui had risen first to Colonel and then to Brigadier-General Wut'ang, who was at that time Governor-General of the grain transport, presented a memorial requesting that Ch'en Kwo-jui might be sent to assist in the management of military affairs. Not long afterwards, the followers of the White Lily Sect in Shangtung rose in rebellion, and Kwo-jui theroupon received enders from Prince Sangkolinsin to march against them. When his men were drawn up ready for battle, be ordered wine to be served out to every single man, and made them ewent that if they were not victorious, they would not return alive. At that time the rebels were great strength, and Kwo-jul's small band could not stand against their overwhelming numbers. His men were utterly routed; forty or so at most made their escape from the battle field; Kwo-jui put every one of them to deat On the following day, during a terrific thunder storm, Kwo-jur put himself at the head of a body of troops, and marched straight down on the rebels stronghold. Ladders were throw up against the wall, and they had climbed half way up, when the rebels reaching out with a grappling hook caught Kwo-jui by the hair of danger, but a sudden and loud peal of thunder so terrified the rebels that in their freight they let fall the grappling book; with one bound Kwo-jui was on the wall, all his followers assending with him. In three days and nights they swept 70 stockades of the long line of defence clear of rebels, and the fame thereof unde Kwo jul's name respected throughout the cutire Empire. A OHINESE LEGEND. At Chu-hei Reien, in the neighbourhood of Hangobow, there stands a hodee which has a very remarkable story and is much venerated in consequence. It belongs to a member of the "gentry" named Ch'an, and has been in his Massacre, is translated from a work entitled or family for two hundred years. The legend "Jottings from Personal Experience," which was runs to the following effect. In the reign of Shun-chib, the first Emperor of the Great! Pure Dynasty, this man's ancestor was a Huang R'al-pang, whose literary name was farmer, who, either by good management or fellow villagers. He removed into the province of building a house for himself, and bis of Honan, where he took up his abode at the descendants; and, in order to ensure its future Sha-kow camp. Kwo jui followed paring it with the latest quotations of silk and his adopted father against the rebels, and tea at home, is quick to enhance his demands the very instant ho notes that a fall in exchange will give an advantage to the bayer. Thus our own capital is used against curselves. If the foreign merchant holds out against the increased rates, the funds in the bank left idle in consequence of the suspension of exchange operations are lent to the native dealers at what, compared with the rates universally ruling amongst the Chinese, is a favourable rate of interest, upon the security of the produce they intend to sell at the higher rates; and in course of time the buyer is forced to give in to the demands made upon him. It is not to be denied that the position of the foreign merchant is a very difficult one, and that in the present day there bardly remains a single source of profit in which the native trader is unable to compete with him, with all the advantages which tho Chinese necessarily possess for conducting business of a variety of descriptions from which the European is excluded. Still it is well to warn buyers against the over sanguine idea that by buying when exchange is low they stand in a better position than otherwise on account of the likelihood of the higher range of prices for exports in Chins which is brought about being maintained when exchange has risen again to a normal figure. In the first place, the reaction itself is extremely problematical in these days of rapid intercommunication and telegraphic, information; and in the second place, they will usually find that the advence in produce orginally induced by the fall in exchange will be lost again should the rate in London rise, and the later buyers will thus be able to come in and run them close in competition as sellers on the home markets, though drawing their bills at a higher exchange. At the present time home prices must be the standard of all export operations with China. They form the basis, as much Has for Sale, Cashmere Shawle, Morning with the well-informed China dealers as with the foreign merchants, and all apparent advantages in lowness of freight or exchange are simply details in the calculation, whose effects can only be of a transitory and temporary character. Looking at the subject generally, there is little probability of any return to high rates of the value of all silver coins has become greatly depreciated by the displacement of that metal consequent upon the introduction of the new coinage into Germany. This effect may possibly not be permanent, though it is generally anticipated that it will be; but, under any circumstances, it must be of long duration, and as above observed, the equalising effects which are produced by the telegraph, combined with rapid steamer intercommunication, render inoperative The Son of Heaven, in recognition of his those local causes which in former days gratified
